

Little Yellow

Feels Cold

Written and Illustrated by:

One day, Little Yellow was feeling cold. She saw John throw some clothes into a dirty clothes basket and got a good idea. She thought, "I will jump into the basket, it will be warm there."

Little Yellow took a big jump and landed on a soft, green T-shirt. But she was still cold.

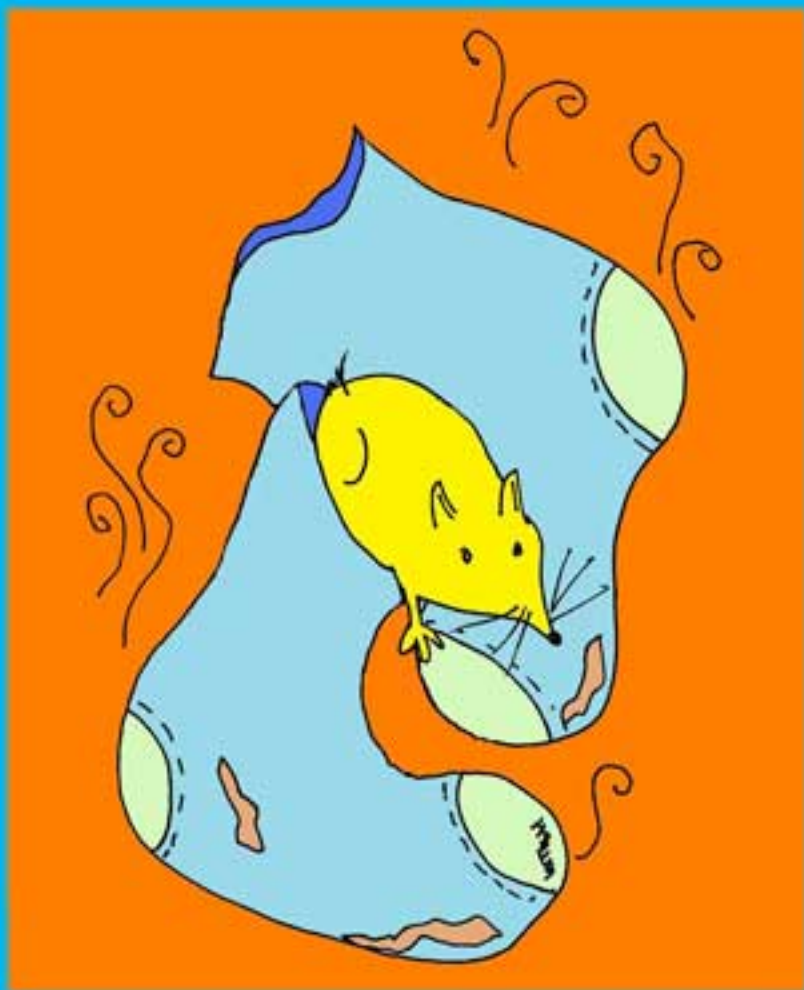

Then, Little Yellow crawled into the leg of a pair of jeans. But she was still cold.

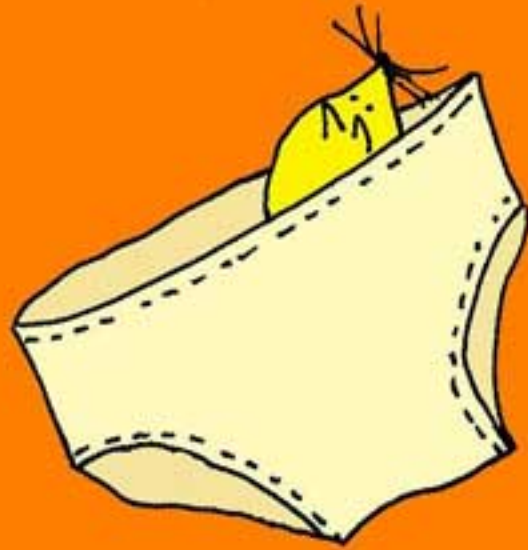

Next, Little Yellow crawled into some green shorts. But she was still cold.

Then, Little yellow crawled over a skirt and into the sleeve of a purple and red T-shirt. But she was still cold.

Later, Little Yellow crawled into John's school socks. They were too smelly so she crawled right back out again.

Finally, Little Yellow crawled into some nice, soft, warm underwear and fell asleep.

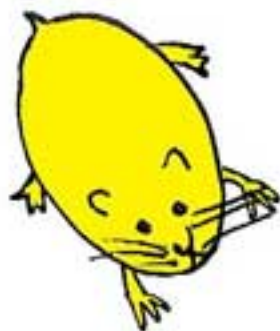

After ten minutes, Mum picked up the clothes and threw them into the washing machine.

Little Yellow was tossed and turned and spun and bumped and bruised in the washing machine. Luckily, John saw poor Little Yellow spinning in circles and quickly pressed the STOP button.

Little Yellow never went near
John's smelly socks again!
